

Assange: claiming he owned the information

Slashdot – “ The Guardian’s Complicated Relationship With Julian Assange” – verweist auf einen interessanten Artikel: „Vanity Fair has published an interesting behind-the-scenes look at the unlikely and tumultuous working relationship between WikiLeaks’ Julian Assange and The Guardian as the Iraq War Logs were being published. The piece highlights the differences and conflicts between the Guardian’s journalistic standards and WikiLeaks’ transparency. Particularly interesting is the revelation that Julian Assange threatened to sue The Guardian if they publish a portion of Iraq War Logs leaked to them by a disgruntled WikiLeaks volunteer, claiming ,he owned the information and had a financial interest in how and when it was released.’“