Die New York Times schreibt über „The Decline of Anti-Trumpism“.

„The modern lowbrow (...) ignores normal journalistic or intellectual standards. He creates a style of communication that doesn't make you think more; it makes you think and notice less. He offers a steady diet of affirmation, focuses on simple topics that require little background information, and gets viewers addicted to daily doses of righteous contempt and delicious vindication.“

Well said, dude. Wird hierzulande aber niemand hinhören.
